

Design/Copy: Lori Dance, torontocopywriter.com

Subject: Are you ready to shape your future?

Please check (one or more) of the following...

- I can answer questions immediately because I'm quick on my feet.
- I see the best in people and can help others to do the same.
- I'm looking to turn my Bachelor's Degree into a Master's Degree that will make the most of my talents and skills.
- I wish to make a difference in the field of public policy, non-profit, political, or corporate public relations.
- I want a timely curriculum with personalized support on my own schedule.

If any of these statements applies to you, we invite you to find out what a Master's Degree in Strategic Public Relations will do for your career. Located in our nation's capital and one of the most recognized and accredited political schools in the country, George Washington University offers online programs that provide the same individualized attention and rich course matter as if you were sitting in a classroom---all on your own terms and in your own time.

"Not only was I learning the skills I needed to succeed in this business, but I was getting to know some of the top political pros along the way."

Mo Elleithee, Senior Spokesperson, Hillary Clinton for President
Political Management Graduate, 1995

Discover how the Master's Degree program in Strategic Public Relations will shape your future by visiting us at pr.gspmonline.com/landingform_oct2008_g.

Design/Copy: Lori Dance, torontocopywriter.com